She was married in Indianapolis May 27 last to Herr Zoltan Doehme, the Hungarian tenor. This was her second matrimonial venture. Her first husband was Fred A Gower, a wealthy electrician, whom she met and married in Paris in 1882. They did not live happily together, and in 1885 Mme. ica began proceedings for a legal separation. The case was postponed from time to time, and in 1887, before a decision had been reached, news came that Mr. Gower had been lost while attempting to cross the English channel in a balloon. His body was never recovered, and the question was debated as to whether or not he was actually killed. In July, 1894, it was reported that he had been seen in London. Meanwhile, however, his estate, which was val-ued at $500,000, had been divided among his heirs. Mme. Nordica settling her claims for

She is to take the place of the popular Nordica and has especially prepared herself for the role of Elsa, which she will sing for the first time early in the season. It remains to be seen whether New York will take to her Elsa as it did to Nordica's. Mme. Eames will also make her first appearance the winter as Valentine in "Les Huguenots." She has also added Elizabeth, in "Tannhauser," to her repertory since she was here last-she sang it with much success in London a year ago last June-and she will be seen in it for the first time in New York next week. Mme. Eames's debut for the season will be made as Eva in "Die Meistersinger," next Wednesday night. Other roles besides mentioned in which she may be called upon to appear during the season are Marguerite, Desdemona, the Countess "Nozze di Figaro," Michaela in "Carmen" and Charlotte in "Werther," which will very likely be revived and for which Mme. Eames has brought over some espe-cially fine costumes. For the present at least Mr. and Mrs. Story are domiciled in a handsome apartment at the Hotel Marie

"But," said Mme, Eames, "they won't my little dog here, and I'm heartbroken. My mother has been out tryink to find another hotel, but they're all the same with their abominable rules. They are all just expensive reformatories. That's what I told the proprietor. The idea of not letting me have my dog. I've had to send him away to live with a friend, and I've just been having a good cry. You can see for yourself my eyes are all red." Mr. Storey, who is Julian Story, the artist, intends to take a studio in New York immediately for the winter. "I expect to do a great deal of portrait painting here this winter," said Mr. Story, "and I also have a number of commissions in Boston and Chicago.' Mr. Story has just completed a very fine portrait of the Prince of Wales, which he painted for Mr. William Waldorf Astor.

ALABAMA LEGISLATURE

Change in Election Laws Recommended by Governor Outes, MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 11.-The Alabama Legislature organized to-day, with A. D. Sayre as president of the Senate, and N. N. Clements as Speaker of the House. The Democrats in the House numbered seventy-six, and the Populists twenty-four. In the Senate there are twentyfour Democrats and nine Populists. The first caucus for the nomination of a United States Senator may be held to-morrow night. Balloting for United States Senator must begin in open session on the 24th inst. The Populists have not yet decided whether they will nominate a candidate or not. Governor Oates in his annual message to the Legislature says the entire bonded debt. of the State is $9,350,000, and recommends the appropriation of $449,900 annually for the payment of interest. He approves the Attorney-general's recommendation that the carrying of concealed weapons be made a felony; that nothing else car suppress the evil; recites numbers of cases of lynching in this State since the last two years, and On the subject of elections he says: "We

Nothing is so great a disturber of public peace, good will among men and the business interests of the country as elections. We should have them less frequently." He wants August elections abolished and place it in November, the same day as federal election. He further says: "Fair elections have been de-manded by the people for many years and the General Assembly has enacted various statutes upon the subject. The present one, which is substantially the Australian ballot system, modified to conform to the requirements of the State Constitution, has been pretty thoroughly tried in two State elections and two federal elections. At each defects in the law were clearly developed and numerous amendments have in quence followed. This system may be a good one in States where there are many ntelligent voters, who are employed by great corporations and want some protection against the dictation of their employers. But in Alabama we are differently situated. A comparatively small percentage of our voting population is thus emthem, and hence a more open and simple ystem of voting would be more accepta- | Special to the Indianapolis Journal. ble to the voters at large. The old law which the present one superseded, with a few amendments, would be preferable to the present one."

National Council of Women.

BOSTON, Nov. 11.-The annual executive committee meeting of the National Council of Women of the United States will be held in Boston Dec. 2, 3 and 4. In addition to the one public meeting, which, by vote of the council, is to be held in connection with each annual executive session, there will be two other public meetings. One will be devoted to the general topics included in the departments in the hands of the cabinet officers, and to local councils, etc., the other two, respectively, to the national organizations and the standing committees. As the concession of one-andone-third railway rates is conditional upon an attendance of one hundred, all members and persons expecting to attend, and also all desiring to avail themselves of the hospitality of friends of the council in Bosion, are requested to report the fact without delay to the corresponding secretary, Mrs. Leuise Barnum Robbins, Adrian, Mich.

FLAMBEAU TEST CASE.

Another Year Before Constitutionality of the Law Is Settled.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. HARTFORD CITY, Ind., Nov. 11 .- About a year ago State Gas Inspector J. A. Leach. of Kokomo, brought suit in the Blackford Circuit Court against A. J. Townsend, J. W. Green and others for violation of the flambeau law. The one against Townsend was taken as a test case and tried in the Circuit Court. The jury found the defendant guilty and fined him $1 and costs. Many people throughout the gas belt thought the ruling unconstitutional and the case was appealed to the State Supreme last resort the validity of the statute. The case was to have had a hearing this term in the Supreme Court, but it was dismissed on account of the defendant not having filed his brief in time. Thus the verdict rendered in Circuit Court stands and the defendant must pay the fine and costs, although the legality of the statute against the flambeau is still in doubt. The case against J. W. Green will now be pushed in the Circuit Court and then carried as soon as possible to the higher court, where a final hearing will be had. The case is of especial interest to the farmers throughout the gas belt as many believe the Supreme Court will reverse the decision of the lower court and in anticipation of this are still burning the flambeaus on their farms Most of the farmers in this county regret the dismissal of the case on account that it will now require another year before the brief can be filed and the case come to trial.

Farmer Daniel J. Nicely Killed by the Panhandle Limited.

UNION CITY, Ind., Nov. 11 .- "Dead Man's Crossing," the crossing of the Jackson pike and the Panhandle railroad, one mile west of this city, added another to its already long list of victims at 10:30 o'clock this morning. Daniel J. Nicely, one of the best known farmers of Randolph county, living three miles southwest of this city, drove to town early this morning, an about 10 o'clock started for home with an empty farm wagon. When in the center of the P., C., C. & St. L. tracks passenger train No. 21, going west, dashed around a sharp curve and struck the wagon, demolishing it and throwing Nicely about sixty feet up the track, killing him instantly. The train passed over his body. His neck was broken, his nose and cheek badly torn and one leg broken. The team was cut loose from the wagon and escaped injury. This crossing is very dangerous, it being impossible to see the track for any great distance either way, and especially when looking towards town, as the track makes a sharp curve just after crossing the pike, and all trains going west run at a high rate of speed on account of there being a long hill beyond the crossing. Mr. Nicely is the sixth person killed at or near this crossing, and a great many others have been injured. CONFERENCE OF CHARITIES. Annual State Meeting Convened at Richmond Last Night.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. RICHMOND, Ind., Nov. 11.-The fifth annual State Conference of Charities and Correction convened here this evening. The attendance was about as expected for the opening session. Addresses of welcome were made by Mayor James S. Ostrander and Senator Charles E. Shively. Timothy Nicholson, of this city, presented the president's annual address, which was followed by a discussion of "Child-helping Societies and Institutions." The chairman of the committee on this subject, Lyman P. Alden, superintendent of the Rose Orphan Home, at Terre Haute, presented a report reviewing the work done. Judge L. Davis, of Terre Haute, president of the Vigo county Board of Childrens' Guardians, read a paper on "Some Experiences in the Work of the Board of Childrens' Guardians." Miss Margaret Bergen, of Franklin, matron of the Johnson County Orphan Asylum, read a paper on "The Placing Out of Dependent Children," and W. A. Mills, superintendent of White's Institute, at Wabash, presented a brief history of that institution. The session closed with an informal reception. Mass Meeting of Miners Called.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. SHELBURN, Ind., Nov. 11. - The long strike which has been on at this place since May 1 was thought to be at an end when the last of the miners here resumed work last Monday in the mines at Alum Cave, Hymera, Star City, Jackson Hill and Currysville. The settlement is not satisfactory to the miners' organization. The present no clew on which to work.

The miners who are working at the other mining camps are very indignant at the miners here for accepting the scale of prices offered by the home company, which is 29 cents per ton, clean coal, for shooters and loaders, and 11 cents per ton for machine runners, with day labor the same as before. The miners from other mines say the district price is 191/2 cents for mine run, and clean coal 31 cents. If the miners here still continue at the twenty-nine-cent scale it would force the miners at other mines to accept a reduction, as other operators have intimated their intention to cut wages should the miners here continue working. A mass meeting of all the miners interested will be held here next Saturday.

The entire amount of the claim as allowed is $118,534.52, to be divided among 272 families. The sum which each for unate claimant receives is $435.79. Other members reside at Dowagiac, Hartford, Benton Harbor, South Haven, Hamilton, Fern and Lake City, Mich.

Important Oil Lease Sale.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. MONTPELIER, Ind., Nov. 11 .- One of the largest oil deals made in the Indiana oil field for many a day has just been made by Bettman, Watson & Berheimer to Julius Rosenthal, of New York city. The sale consists of a one-fourth interest in the firm's producing property, consisting of several thousand acres of leases and over one hundred producing oil wells, for $87,000. The Cudahy pipe line will com-mence to buy oil about Dec. 1. They have their pipe line in Wells county completed to their iron tanks on the Engle farm, near the hamlet of Domestic.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. WINAMAC, Ind., Nov. 11.-The Republicans of this city to-night held a jollification meeting over the election of McKinley and Hobart. Judge D. P. Baldwin, of Logansport, was the chief speaker. In the course of his speech he said:

"Comparatively few people stop to think of the fearful danger that we have just is, to be doubled. avoided; no less danger than a complete abolition of that wise, though costly, policy of the government's purchasing all the silver bullion it coins and guarantecing its | Oases were appearing as they did two parity with gold, and of substituting in its place an invitation to the whole world to bring its silver bullion here and have it coined by the United States without charge; each dollar a full legal tender, regardless of its intrinsic value, and then setting these dollars to circulate here, as in while that danger is past, it by no means follows that the silver problem is solved or that international bimetallism is the only solution. We ought not to have a paper dollar of less denomination than ten dollars. It is a very open question whether our government has any business at all to be in the banking business. The best thought of the Nation must be turned upon this currency question, else we shall have to fight the ground all over again in 1900. But the victory over free coinage is by no means the greatest of the triumphs of 1896. For years the frontier line of the Republicans has been the Ohio river. Maryland, West Virginia and Kansas have yielded, and now Tennessee and North Carolina are the border lines. Last year a Republican was elected Governor of Louisiana. and in 1894 Missouri went the same way. All this indicates the approaching dissolution of the 'solid South.' The woods of Alabama and Georgia are full of protectionists, and by wise policy in 1900 they will be as unreliable Democratic States as Tennessee and North Carelina now are. While I regret that, owing to the silver panic of 1893, and the loss of $30,000,000 annual revenue by the overthrow of the income tax, tariff reform has never had a chance to vindicate itself, still in view of our unhappy financial condition I am ready to support any moderate protective tariff that will give us $100,000,000 per annum more income. GRANTED A DIVORCE.

The End of a Romance of a Pittsburg ship Texas convened to-day at the Brook-Actress. Pittsburg Chronicle Telegraph.

Mrs. Georgia Goedecke, formerly Miss Georgia Cleis, of the South Side, has been granted a divorce from her husband, who is confined in a French prison on a charge of arson. The Chicago courts allowed the divorce on the grounds of his being a convict. Goedecke was an officer in the German army. About six years ago Georgia Cleis was in London studying music. While there she met the licutenant, and they fell desperately in love. As the rules of the German army forbid the officers marrying, he resigned his commission and engaged in the manufacturing business in France, where they were married. One night the factory burned down in a most suspicious manner. Goedecke and his wife were arrested for arson. Her husband was convicted and was sentenced to ten years in prison, but the wife was acquitted. She came back to the United States with the avowed purpose of interesting the United States government in her husband's be-half. She went to LaPorte, Ind., where she was induced by relatives to go to Chicago and sue for a divorce. A letter from her husband, written from his cell, was introduced to show his whereabouts. It was couched in the most endearing language, and it was evident that the writer did not know the steps his wife was taking to have the marriage annulled. This was done by the Chicago courts last Saturday.

It was noticed by American astronomers during the past month that the Martian years ago, the last time favorable observation of the planet were possible. In addition to this the many canals in Mars have been appearing first single, then double, at about the same time they appeared at the Mexico, upon their commercial value. But, last observation. These discoveries have led to great speculation on the part of assame natural laws that prevail on our planet. The significant point of Flammarion's discovery is that the seasonal phenomena of the Martian year are repeating themselves. That Mars is not only a living world, but a very orderly one to boot, is pretty conclusively shown by the In a recent article M. Flammarion says: Of all the planets of the solar system

Mars bears the closet resemblance to the world on which we dwell; this is conceded. Further, it is in every way probable that Mars is, or has been, covered with vegetation; there is much reason to believe that it is even now, like our own orb, a theater of life. Mars has gradually dried away, until its surface is like a desert, through parts of which the streams from the melting ice caps still descend in floods at certain seasons, making a system of irrigation possible; and it is a well known fact that the telescope reveals what appears to be a network of canals all over the planet's disk.' The surface of the planet, both in the light and the dark regions, is undergoing the same metamorphosis it did two years the people have said that the President can ago. Topics Discussed at Yesterday's Sessions-Chicago Next Meeting Place.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 11.-At 2 o'clock this afternoon the sessions of the Baptist Congress were resumed in the First Baptist Church with a large attendance, J. T. Henderson presiding. The topic for discussion. "The Problems of the Country Church," was taken up and a paper relative thereto, entitled "Finances," was read by L. B. Lake, D. D., Upperville, Pa. A paper expected from Rev. W. L. Munger, of Belding, Mich., entitled "Pastoral Leadership," was not read because of his absence, as was one entitled "Modern Methods of Work," by W. H. Felix, D. D., Lexington, Ky. Speeches on the general topic were made by R. H. Pittm, D. D., Richmond, Va., Rev. J. H. Baldridge, Lancaster, S. C.

The night session was held with a very large attendance, J. T. Henderson presiding. The topic for consideration was, "Is God the Father of All Men?" Written papers were presented by F. M. Rowley, D. Special gifts have been received amounting to $43,410. Bishop Thoburn offered a resolution proposing a committee to devise a way of increasing collec-tions by $250,000. The resolution was Revenue Legislation. Philadelphia Telegraph. The country has declared for a new departure and its mandate should be promptly and fully obeyed. The Democratic party may do as it pleases in the premises. Its official representatives in Congress may refuse to support a needful change in revenue legislation, but for this they will be held responsible, if no relief should be given the government. Most assuredly, throughout this part of the country there is practically but one opinion. It took two years for the Republican party, after President Harrison's election, to pass a new tariff bill. It took two years to repeal the McKinley law. Such a prolo period should not be wasted before the costly blunder of 1894 is remedied.

A Blood Named "Charcoal" Kills Four People and Wounds Two More.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 11.-Several days ago an Indian named "Charcoal," on the Blood reserve, near Fort McLeod, killed three people-another Indian, his squaw and the farm instructor. Charcoal escaped from the reserve and a detachment of mounted police have been in pursuit of him. They have several times been held at bay by the desperado. Two policemen have been wounded and to-day Sergeant Wiide, while attempting his capture, was shot dead. The orders now are to shoot the redskin on sight.

WHAT IT MEANS.

Results That Must Be Made to Follow

the Election. New York Financier. It appears to be settled definitely that President McKinley will have behind him a Congress favorable to his policy, which means that there will be little or no delay in effecting reforms the need of which is admitted on all sides. The first of these is a revision of the tariff. This at the present time is essentially a business question. We do not be-lieve that the McKinley tariff will be reenacted. In fact, the best tariff law in the world to-day may become worthless tomorrow by reason of the country's development in other directions. The main purpose of a tariff bill now is to raise a revenue adequate to the needs of the government, and as long as the country is called upon to meet the expense in the end, either through taxation or postponement of taxation in the issue of bonds, it would seem infinitely preferable to place the burden in such a way as to bear down lightest on the people who can least protect themselves. In other words, those whose only capital is their labor should not have this capital rendered nonproductive. This is the weak point in the present tariff law. It is true, as often stated, that an excessive tariff defeats its own purpose as a revenue bill, but even so the country could better afford to pay a direct internal tax of $6 or $7 per capita, with every citizen of the Republic at work, than to resort to an import tax which is collected at the price of numerous idle industries. It is very evident that the new Congress will take some such view of the situation, but it will not pass a partisan measure. At the same time the policy of protection will be followed closely. Whether Congress will be wise enough to permit the currency revision problem to pass into the hands of an expert commission cannot be forefold. but the history of the past twenty years ought to be a lesson worth remembering. The Bland silver compromise in 1878 resulted in disaster, as did the 1890 compromise known as the Sherman act. We ave just buried the miserable compromise known as the 16-to-1 theory, and we can afford no guess work with economics whose rules are as exact as those of mathematics. It is very much to be hoped that power will be given a nonpartisan commission to report on this question. As affecting the relations of the United States with other nations it is likely that present complications will have been ty generally arranged before Mr. McKinley takes his seat, and there will be nothing, therefore, barring the unexpected, to disturb the serenity of the country in this respect. Although both Louisiana and Nebraska voted against the forthcoming administration, it would not be surprising to find Congress ready to further as far as possible the production of cane and beet sugar by favorable legislation. The trust laws and the relations of the government to the railroads will possibly receive a great deal of attention, as will the subject of reciprocity treaties with American gov-

Mrs. Maybrick's Case. London Daily Mail: A Walsall woman recently released from Woking, where she came into almost daily association with Mrs. Maybrick, interviewed yesterday, gives as the general opinion of the prison officials that she would be released at the end of ten years' imprisonment. She declares that twice Mrs. Maybrick's liberty dress has actually been prepared, but the opportunities were wasted through her misconduct-first cutting herself with a bottle, and afterwards reopening the wounds with a hairpin. Indigestion, indicated by sourness of the stomach, flatulency, heartburn, and distress after eating, are followed by disordered liver, constipation, headaches, kidney disease, loss of appetite, nervousness, debility and loss of flesh. Loss of flesh prepares the way for the most serious consequences. Weakness from any cause is an invitation to consumption. The germs of consumption are in the air and in our food-in the water we drink. They are everywhere. But they are harmless to the perfectly healthy body. It is only when the body is weak that they do any harm. Prompt measures should be taken at the first indication of disease. When indigestion shows itself in any form it calls for the immediate use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This wonderful medicine is an invigorating tonic for the whole system.
